

Protective Skins for Your Guitars - Developed By Musicians For Musicians

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GuitarGuard™ Named “Best of Show” In MacsimumNews.com’s
2009 Winter NAMM Roundup

*Patent Pending Protective Guitar ‘Skin’ Rates Among Show’s Best By Editors
At Annual Gear Fest In Anaheim*

New York, NY (February 6, 2009)—GuitarGuard’s patent-pending protective guitar ‘skin’ was recently named as “Best of Show” products in Macsimum News’ 2009 Winter NAMM Roundup (www.macsimumnews.com). GuitarGuard debuted at the annual ‘gearfest’ in Anaheim this past January to rave reviews among players and gear buffs alike. Additionally, GuitarGuard was thrilled to be featured in Music Inc. magazine’s February 2009 “Gear Guide” issue.

From Macsimum News:

“Of course, the weathered guitar that has the marks of years of worn away finishes and scratches that are the signature of some types of music (in fact, Fender® released a “road worn” series of new guitars!), but that may not be what you want on your new $1,200 American Standard. These guitar skins are smooth, bold, and do not cover up too much of the finish of the guitar body.

Available in both Stratocaster and Les Paul forms, the skins are available in black, blue and red colors and you will not need to buy a new case since there is barely any added thickness to the instrument. The company reports using “eco-friendly” materials as well and offers a 100 percent satisfaction guarantee with their GuitarGuards. No friction, fewer scratches, but you still cannot just lay your guitar propped up against your amp and assume that it won’t fall down, go boom.”

About GuitarGuard™:

GuitarGuard™ is a new patent pending protective ‘skin’ for your instrument, made of sustainable materials and developed by musicians, for musicians. GuitarGuard™ allows the beauty of your instrument to shine through by offering maximum protection with minimal surface coverage in only the places you really need it. GuitarGuard™ fits around the guitar’s contours and won’t interfere with your instrument’s look, sound or playability—while maintaining its value and integrity. GuitarGuard™ comes in two styles StratJacket & Gibskin and three colors (Classic Black, Obama Blue, Raging Red), allowing players to change the look of their guitar instantly with our EZ on/EZ off approach. Guitar picks fit perfectly in the binding of each GuitarGuard™, giving you easy access to picks so you can lay down some ‘smoke on the water’ at a moment’s notice. GuitarGuard-outfitted instruments will fit easily into any soft- or hard-shell case.

GuitarGuard™ is great for players of all styles and skills, from recreational players to touring pros to celebrity axe masters. Distributed globally by D’Andrea USA, GuitarGuard™ is available at many fine musical instrument retailers and online at www.guitarguard.net. MSRP $29.99.
